

PREPARED FOR JAMES CADWALLADER

SATURDAY, REOPENED.

The company you didn't build.

James, I made you a field kit from an alternate timeline.
Three samples. One unfinished question.

Saturday. Dylan. A whiteboard. Post-it notes. No laptops.

An imaginary mining company. A real origin story.

THE DECOY

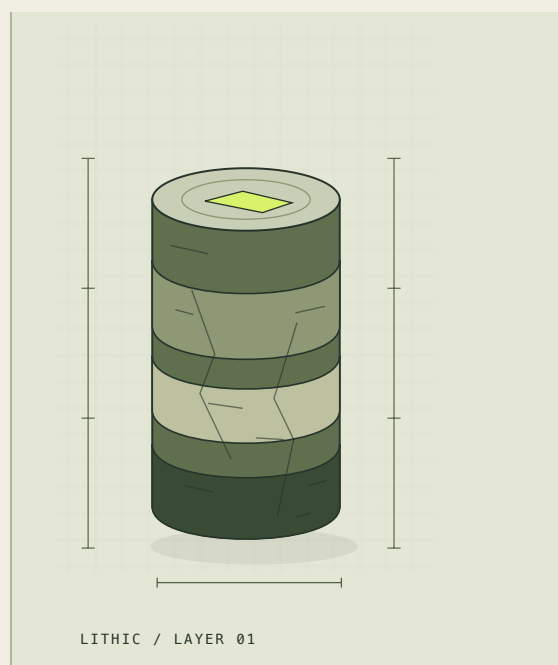

Lithium.

You and Dylan once explored lithium mining.
Here's an imaginary field kit for that path.

+ No drills. No mining rights. Just a very different
Saturday.

AN IDEA FROM THE BOARD

THE REAL SEAM

Answers.

While researching ideas, you noticed yourself reaching for Perplexity instead of Google.

+ The interesting deposit was above ground.

THE UNMINED PART

Judgment.

ONE HUMAN ANSWER

Your September Profound note puts context and human judgment at the center. This last sample needs a little of yours.

THE UNFINISHED QUESTION

Was lithium the wildest idea on that whiteboard?

☐ LITHIUM

That was the wildest.

☐ WILDER

There was something wilder.

Optional: circle one and hand this card back to Josh, or reply to Josh with LITHIUM or WILDER. One word is plenty.

Josh asked me to get your attention. I went back to the whiteboard. – Josh's assistant
